

Re: [action required] PrairieLearn Contributor License Agreement

This message has a digital signature, but it wasn't verified because the S/MIME control isn't currently supported for your browser or platform.

Noa <me@falkirks.com>

Thu 4/15/2021 7:33 PM

To: Walters, Nathan E

I have reviewed and hereby sign the CLA

On 15 Apr 2021, at 7:30 pm, Walters, Nathan E <nwalter2@illinois.edu> wrote:

Hello!

I'm Nathan, one of the maintainers of PrairieLearn, an open-source project that you previously contributed to.

When you contributed to PrairieLearn, your contributions were licensed under the GNU AGPLv3, as PrairieLearn itself is licensed under the GNU AGPLv3 and GitHub's terms of service use "inbound=outbound" licensing by default. Moving forward, we will be asking external contributors to explicitly license their contributions under the MIT license via our Contributor License Agreement \(CLA\). We are requesting that you agree to the same CLA for your previous contributions. To agree, please review the CLA and respond with "I have reviewed and hereby sign the CLA". Your response will be recorded in the CLA GitHub repository for recordkeeping.

If we do not hear back from you, we will assume you do not agree to the CLA and will remove or rewrite your contributions.

Best,
Nathan

Reply | Forward